

Female athletes compete in the sixth round of arm wrestling championship in western city of Sanandaj, Iran, on March 6, 2023.
● FARSHID ARDALAN/ISNA

Streets are decorated by light bulbs ahead of the birth anniversary of Shias' 12th Imam, Imam Mahdi, in the city of Yazd, central Iran, on March 6, 2023.
● MAJID DEHGANIZADEH/MEHR

Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro (R), accompanied by Prime Minister of Saint Vincent and the Grenadines Ralph Everard Gonsalves (L) and Cuba's former president Raul Castro (C), during the commemorative event for the 10th anniversary of the death of former Venezuelan president Hugo Chavez, at the Teresa Carreno Theater in Caracas, Venezuela, on March 5, 2023.
● MARCELO GARCIA/VENEZUELAN PRESIDENCY/AFP

Bus drivers burn flares behind a banner reading in French "On March 7, let's block everything until withdrawal" on a bridge above Paris' ring road "Le Peripherique" in Paris on March 6, 2023, as massive strikes are expected from March 7 in France against the government's proposed pension reform.
● THOMAS SAMSON/AFP

Women lift placards as they protest in solidarity with Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails, outside the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) mission headquarters in Gaza City on March 6, 2023.
● MOHAMMED ABED/AFP

Supporters of Nigeria's People's Democratic Party candidate, Atiku Abubakar, protest at Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC) headquarters, over the results of Nigeria's 2023 presidential and general election in Abuja on March 6, 2023.
● KOLA SULAIMON/AFP

Plumes of smoke rise from the construction site of a police center in Atlanta, Georgia, the United States, after hundreds of activists set vehicles ablaze on March 5, 2023, in protest at the building of the planned Atlanta Public Safety Training Center.
● nytimes.com

Sandstorm hit the city of Ardebil, northwestern Iran, on March 6, 2023, reducing visibility and causing other problems for the people.
● MOHAMMAD DASHTI/MEHR