INTERVIEW

The result of the parliamentary elections in France seems to have plunged both the country and Europe into a satisfactory shock. The far-right party led by Marine Le Pen, who won first place in the first round of the election, relegated to third place in the second round, and the leftist coalition won the most seats. Now we have to wait and see how the developments in France will go with the new political combination. In this regard, Iran Daily conducted an interview with Bahram Ghasemi, one of the senior diplomats of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs who has already served as Iranian ambassador to France. Ghasemi was also Iran's ambassador to Italy, Spain and Ireland. Following is the interview:
